

The Legion of Fate Lore

Fate Lore x 1

- The Legion of Fate is made up of those that Fate has marked as her own.
- The Lady of Fate rules from the Seat of Fate.
- Promotion in the Legion of Fate's military and bureaucracy is entirely by merit, through the ranks and all start at the bottom, yet no legionnaire will "cross-over" into the bureaucracy.
- The Deathmarks of the Legion of Fate are usually much more obvious than those of the average wraith: The inward-turning spiral, the joined circles, the infinity symbol, joined rings, an hourglass, a yin-yang or a pair of concentric circles generally referred to as Odin's Eye.

Fate Lore x 2

- Has heard of the Legion's Special Orders.
- The Seat of Fate is not located in Stygia but on the Isle of Eurydice.
- Understands how the Legion of Fate's military and bureaucracy is setup and run in the Shadowlands.
- The Legion of Fate compensate for their lack of numbers by being extremely skilled at their duties and a majority of troops are skilled in Fatalism.
- Expected to question orders that seem stupid or suicidal.
- The legion's members are never allowed to disobey orders. To do so brings a future in the exciting field of lawn ornamentation.

Fate Lore x 3

- Is familiar with the Special Orders.
- Is familiar with famous Legion of Fate Legionnaires.
- Knows fates Anacreon is served directly by three subordinates: the Chancellor of Reaping, the Chancellor of Politics and Administration, and the Overlord of Military Affairs.
- Has heard rumors that the Legion of Fate underwrites certain reformist factions in Stygian politics who might be called Renegades.
- Know that the Legion of Fate hasn't come out against the idea that Transcendence is a myth and the rank and file tend to practice a "don't ask, don't tell" policy.

Fate Lore x 4

- Is probably a member of a Special Order.
- Has heard of the Reed boats that have been drawn up on the banks of Ripple Bay, sometimes as many as several at a time.
- Is very familiar with The Order of the Scarlet Sword.
- Has possibly visited the Island of Eurydice.

Fate Lore x 5

- Fate's Provincial Anacreon has total autonomy in their territory.
- Has a fair idea how many Ladies of Fate there are.
- The Ladies of Fate may be secretly giving support to the Ferrymen.
- The Legion of Fate seems as if it is preparing for something to do with Transcendence....and their operations, as of late, have been directed toward this goal.